Vancouver Institute to Be Addressed By Labor Officials

"Industrial Accidents and Workmen's Compensation" will be the subject of an address by Mr. James H. McVety, president of the Vancouver Trades and Labor council, next Thursday evening, Nov. 29, under the auspices of the Vancouver Institute, which holds its weekly meetings in the University building, corner 11th avenue west and Willow street.

This is the first of three subjects to be covered by speakers chosen by Vancouver Trades and Labor council and, as there is no charge for admittance, workmen who are interested in the subject will have an opportunity of hearing the question dealt with from their standpoint.

On Jan. 31, 1918, Mr. W. R. Trotter will take for his topic, "Migration within the Empire," and on March 14, 1918, "Capital, Labor and the State," will be discussed by E. T. Kingsley.
