

E. T. KINGSLEY TO SPEAK AT ROYAL

Labor School Will Finish Successful Season on Sunday Next

"The End of an Epoch" will be the subject of Comrade E. T. Kingsley's address at the Federated Labor party meeting in the Royal theatre next Sunday evening. Comrad Kingsley, the "old war horse" of the coast for the last twenty years, always has some interesting items to point out that escape the general notice and his observations on the "End of an Epoch" will be worth noting. That the end of an epoch is fast approaching should be evident to any one who keeps in touch with events the world over. It is expected that "the old man" will straighten out a few wrinkles regarding the matter. Mrs. H. G. Taylor will take the chair at 8 p. m. Doors open at 7:30 p. m. Questions and 5-minute speeches permitted after the address.

The literature committee have been successful in obtaining a good stock of literature, including several new pamphlets, and will have these on sale at the theatre.

The closing session of the Labor School will be held next Sunday afternoon in O'Brien Hall at 2:30 children will be present on this occasion and any one interested in the work of the Labor School will be welcome. A special programme, to demonstrate what the school has been doing, has been arranged. The members of the school and friends will turn out to the celebration of International Labor Day at Mahon Park, May 1, and intend to take a table near the dancing pavillion.

There will be a meeting of the provincial executive on Saturday evening at room 510 Dominion building at 7:30 p. m.
