WAR DECLARED

By the Kamloops Board of Trade
Against the
DEPARTMENTAL STORES

Co-Operation Sought to Have Government Legislate on Such Institutions.

Some interest has been aroused locally in the proposal as endorsed by the local board of trade, says the Rossland Miner, to tax departmental stores. The question was mooted by the Kamloops board of Trade, which passed a resolution dealing with the matter in the following terms:

"Whereas eastern departmental stores are doing business by catalogue and other advertising mediums through the mails of the province and such stores contribute nothing toward the taxes which go to build up the commercial importance of this province and the towns and cities therein, and whereas these eastern departmental stores by their methods work a manifest injustice to this province and to the merchants who contribute largely both directly and indirectly to the revenue of the province, and as legislation is being urged upon the Ontario local government to remedy this evil, therefore be it resolved that the inland board of trade respectfully urge the government to give this matter their immediate and careful attention with the view to the passage of such legislation as will enforce the levying of adequate taxation on such firms doing business by retail from other provinces and contributing nothing to the revenue of this province and the cities in it."

The foregoing resolution received the endorsement of the Rossland board, although doubt was expressed as to the practicability of enforcing any process of collection of revenue along the lines indicated.

In bringing the matter to the attention of the Rossland board the Kamloops board describes the departmental stores as an evil that is slowly but surely sapping the vitality from the mercantile and commercial interests of British Columbia. The Kamloops people declared that their object in inaugurating this campaign was not to stop the eastern departmental stores from doing business in the province, but that while yielding these institutions equal rights to trade in British Columbia they sought to make them pay their share towards the provincial revenues proportionate with that contributed by actual merchants.

The Kamloops people further declare that the movement was not aimed at commercial travellers doing a legitimate business in the interests of their firms, but merely against departmental stores coming to competition with local retail dealers without the handicap of taxes to the province which local merchants have to shoulder.

The Editor Tries Frankness.
Married—Miss Sylvia Rhodos to James Caranham, last Saturday afternoon. The bride is an ordinary town girl who doesn't know any more than a rabbit about cooking, and never helped her poor mother three days in her life. She is not a beauty by any means and has a gut like a fat duck. The groom is known as an up to date loafer, and has been living off the old folks all his life, and don't amount to anything no how. They will have a hard life while they live together, and the News hastens to extend absolutely no congratulations, for we don't believe any good can come from such a union.—Tremean News.

CUTTING LOOSE FROM THE SMELTING TRUST

The Coeur d'Alene mineowners have appointed a secret committee to enquire into the conditions surrounding the smelting industry and purposes withdrawing entirely from the smelting trust and building a large smelting plant to treat their own ores. The Spokesman Review has the following to say regarding the matter:

Relations between the Coeur d'Alene mineowners and the smelting trust are on the verge of a crash. It now seems assured that a lead smelter and refinery, with a capacity of at least 500 tons a day employing hundreds of men, for treating the ores of the Coeur d'Alene and of Republic, will be built here within a year. A similar plant will probably be erected at Denver to handle the surplus of the Coeur d'Alene ores, which can not be treated to advantage here.

A capital of $1,500,000 would be invested in the enterprise here, of which about $500,000 would be spent on the plant, and it would be supplied by the mineowners of the Coeur d'Alene. A smelter for Spokane has been talked of and dreamed of for years. Now it seems near at hand, for the mineowners have reached a point where they have decided to reduce their own ores.

Matters have been precipitated lately by the refusal of the smelting company to handle shipments of ore made by the mines in excess of the amount stipulated in the contract.

Secret Committee Named.
A secret committee has been appointed by the mineowners' association for the purpose of deciding on a means of relief from the present intolerable situation. The judgement of the mineowners is that a plant should be built here, with a capacity regulated by the supply of silicious fluxes which may be secured from Republic camp, the iron deposits of Stephens county, which are being developed by President J. D. Farrell of the Pacific Coast company, will furnish the iron needed, and coke can be secured in unlimited quantities either from the Crow's Nest or the Cascade fields. The water in unlimited quantities, electricity for motive power, and, above all, the vast scope of the railways centering here combine to make Spokane an ideal smelting site. So confident are the mineowners that the plan is going through that one man, whose connection with the big companies gives him authority unquestioned, says: "I am confident that Spokane will be a smelter with a capacity of at least 500 tons a day, inside of the coming year."

Decision Most Important.
The decision on the part of the mineowners to do their own reducing is one of the most important that has ever been reached in the mining circles of the Northwest. Since the formation of the American Smelting & Refining Company, and its securing control over nearly all the lead smelters of the country, things have been decidedly strained. The smelting company controlled by the Guggenheims, has assumed to dictate absolutely and arbitrarily the terms under which the Coeur d'Alene mineowners should market their product. The trust compelled them to sign contracts agreeing to give all their output to the trust smelters, and to route in over the railway selected by the trust. It has always been charged that the trust has made enormous profits from the rebates which it got from the railways on freight bills paid by tin mineowners.

Then, too, the smelting charges have been considered high, and requests for reductions have been refused. The smelting trust some time ago undertook to limit the amount of ore which the mines could put on the market. The output was limited to two-thirds of the alleged normal production, though it was increased last month 25 per cent. The price, at first at a pond, was cut afterward to $1 25 a pond, where it now stands. As the result of the reduced output and the reduced price, the profits of some of the big mines have just about been cut in two.

Getting No Relief.
Against these conditions the mineowners have steadily complained without relief, until a short time ago they decided to cut free from the smelting trust. The Coeur d'Alene mines produce about 25 per cent of the argentiferous lead ore in the United States. The resulting fight with the smelting trust is certain to be a lively one, for it is expected that the great trust will put up a stiff fight for supremacy in its field.

Other Process in View.
The trend of the investigations made by the committee is directed toward the establishment of smelters, but other methods of reducing ore have been examined. A few days ago a consignment of less than a car of ore from the Standard mine was shipped to Denver to be treated by the Pahl-Croa-dale process. The inventor, Mr. Pahl, was for years assayer for the Globe smelting works and tested thousands of tons of Standard ore. He believes that his new process will treat it perfectly.

The process is a simple one. The ore is not concentrated, but is pulverized finely, mixed with salt, and roasted. Chlorine gas is generated from the salt, which carries off the metals in the form of fumes. The gas is treated to separate the various metals, and very tin metal is produced. If the treatment is successful, a plant may be erected in the Coeur d'Alene to handle the ore. At present from 10 to 20 per cent of the value of the ore is lost in concentration. Then, too, in shipping the concentrates, freight must be paid on about as much waste rock as ore, for the concentrates carry, roughly, only about 50 per cent of lead.

Rich Strike on the Golden Era.
Judge Miller of the Old Gold and Primrose, also G. N. Taylor and J. C. Murray of Trout Lake, visited Ferguson Wednesday and gave the Eagle a call. The judge informed us that while assessment work was being done on the Golden Era, one of the properties of the Treadwell Co., an excellent showing of galena and copper was encountered, the ore body being 18 inches in width.

The Monte Cristo.
J. T. Lauthers returned to town Monday from the Golden Gate and Monte Cristo claims, situated one half mile from Circle City townsite, where he and his assistant have been doing assessment work. He brought down some fine specimens taken from the ledge. There is a good showing on the properties, the lead being six feet wide and fairly well mineralized.

Wedding Bells.
A quiet wedding took place Thursday last at the Hume hotel, Nelson, when Miss V. M. Wesfall was united in marriage to Jacob Schmitt, superintendent of the Pedro mine. The ceremony was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Reid, Congregational minister. Randolph Higginson, Supr. of the Galena Gold was best man, the bride was given away by her mother. The happy couple will reside at Trout Lake. The Eagle extends congratulations.

Indians Dissatisfied.
A report from the Indian reserve at Caginawaga, Quebec says that a newly appointed parish priest is desirous of establishing a convent there, but that the Indian community being satisfied with lay lady teachers in the schools, are opposed to the introduction of nuns. The trouble is said to be causing a good deal of excitement and threats to be serious. A rumor is abroad also to the effect that there is trouble brewing on the reserve between the Indians and the French Canadians residing in the vicinity. It is said that the Indians claim that the French have no right to own land on the reserve.

Demand for Copper.
Europe will need a vast amount of copper during the next four months because of the increased consumption there and lessened exports from here, and because contracts with copper producers will expire, and then American consumers must of necessity become large contractors for their wants. We estimate that the consumption for the coming four months of this year will be fully 50,000,000 pounds per month in America, and that contracts will be made for export before December which will aggregate 12,000 to 15,000 tons per month. This should carry the price of copper legitimately to 13 or 14 cents per pound in this country and advance the price in London £10 to £15 per ton.—Ex.

A Nasty Accident.
Mr. Mills came in from San Francisco on Monday to superintend the building of the aerial tram to the Prieme. Monday night as he was coming out of J. A. McCrossan's office in the darkness of the evening and not being familiar with the high platform and steps, he walked off in the wrong direction and fell to the ground. He was picked up in an unconscious condition, and taken into the office where upon examination it was discovered he had fallen on some wires and had a bad cut on his head. Dr. Newcomb was immediately summoned and put three stitches in the wound. The following day Mr. Mills left for Ten Mile feeling pretty stiff and weak from the loss of blood but determined to look after the tram construction without delay.

A Remarkable Marriage.
The East Anglian times reports that a splinter of 41 and an agricultural laborer of 26, were united in marriage at Henstead church during the bank holidays. Exceptional interest was aroused in the event from the fact that the bride had been bedridden for 20 years and had to be conveyed to the church from the parish of Hulver, where the parties live, in a bath chair. She had been in receipt of parish relief until a few weeks since, when the guardians stopped it for some cause or other. Then the man came forward with an offer of marriage, and when consummated with by request: "They have taken off her pay; there is no one to look after her." The marriage was duly solemnized, and the villagers gave a demonstration of "tin music."

THE ROSS RIFLE

Subjected to Severe Test by Canadian Government.

AND FOUND TO BE SUPERIOR

To the Present British Army Rifle,
Having Several Advantages
Over It.

The Ross rifle, which has been adopted by the Canadian government, uses the same cartridge as the present British army rifle, but has several advantages over it. One of these is that the wood of the stock comes down flush with the magazine, so that it is possible to "slop arm" after the old and comfortable fashion. The method of carrying the Lee-Enfield sideways at the "slope," which is necessitated by the obstruction of the Magazine at the place which would naturally rest on the shoulder, proves excessively tiring to the wrist and hand during a long march, and tends to cause a marked unsteadiness that may subsequently be noticed.

The bolt of the rifle is of the front lock, straight pull variety, a single recilinear movement backwards and forwards serving to lock and unlock the breech action and cock the firing pin. The simplicity of operation, which is very marked in firing the rifle, as compared with the usual turning bolt, is attained by making the bolt head separate from the main portion of the bolt, the two engaging in a series of volute curves in such a manner that the pushing home of the bolt rotates the head, so that two lugs must enter into corresponding grooves in the front end of the breech boss, as in the turning bolt system, and vice versa, the withdrawal of the bolt rotates the head so as to free the lugs. Connected with the bolt is an improved cartridge shell extractor.

The trigger is arranged so that it will work even if both the trigger spring and the sear spring are broken. The magazine is of a compact form, kept flush with the woodwork of the rifle. It consists of a metal box, into which the cartridges, five in number, can be dropped haphazard onto a platform depressed for the purpose by hand, the arrangement of the cartridges in proper zig-zag fashion, ready for use being accomplished automatically, or at worst, assisted by a slight shaking of the platform. In addition it permits the use of a clip or charger, such as is adopted by the Mauser rifle, and the number of cartridges in the magazine at any time.

The cartridges are put up in batches of five, in tin or cardboard cases, so made that by a slight motion, the cover is stripped off and the cartridges poured into the magazine. This makes very quick loading possible, and prevents loss of ammunition.

The rifle was subjected to very severe tests by the Canadian government, and these were entirely successful. One of the tests was the firing of 300 rounds as quickly as possible; this was done in 19 minutes and 4 seconds, or at the rate of about 26 shots a minute, one lot of 50 rounds being fired in 92 seconds. At the close of the test the woodwork was charred and scorching from the heat of the barrel, but the rifle was in perfect working order. It is claimed that the Lee-Enfield rifle cannot be fired half as quickly as the Ross.

The length of the rifle, with its bayonet, is 56 1/2 inches, without it, 48 inches. Its weight with bayonet, is 8 pounds 4 ounces, without it, 7 pounds 9 ounces. Lord Roberts has ordered that tests be made with the Ross rifle with a view to bringing its merits before the Small Arms Committee, appointed by the war office, and it is possible that it may be adopted as the British army rifle.—Ex.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

By an act passed at the last session of the British Columbia legislature all old voters' lists were cancelled on the 31st ultimo and the preparation of new lists was begun on the 1st inst. According to the new regulations all voters, whether on the old list or not, are required to register during the month of September. It is very important to register for otherwise one will not be able to exercise their elective franchise when occasion arises.

A great many people will regret to hear of the death of Edward Eggleston at the age of 65 years.

He wrote many stories which have been translated into different languages and published in both hemispheres. For many years he contributed to Harper's and other magazines.

Eggleston was a self made and self educated man. Thrown on his own resources when quite a youth he won his way to fame through his own sterling qualities.

Students would do well to study the lives of such men as Eggleston.

The Ontario agricultural department reports a record breaking wheat crop averaging forty bushels to the acre for that province. Some crops have been reported to the department running 60 bushels to the acre.

Mr. I. G. Blackstock, of the Centre Star and War Eagle made an important statement in Toronto recently as to the future of the above properties. New contracts for smelting have been reduced from six to five a ton on ores containing values to the amount of $9.50, while on ores under this grade the charges have been reduced from $6 to $4. The mines are to deliver 12,000 tons a month of high grade and from 6,000 to 12,000 of low grade ore.

English Editors Visit the Capital.

Victoria, B. C.—The British editors arrived here last night, Sept. 4th, and visited Chinatown. Today they drive all about the city, Esquimalt, etc. Tonight they go as the guests of the government on board the Yessite, and by dawn will be at Crofton, where they will visit the smelter, also mount Sicker, Chemaino, Ladysmith and Nanaimo, crossing over Saturday morning to Vancouver and taking the Imperial Limited east.

Vancouver Sept. 6.—The visiting British journalists were the guests of the city today. In the morning they assembled at the C. P. R. station and went by train to Steveston, where at the Brunswick cannery they witnessed the process of canning salmon. On their return they were entertained at lunch by Mayor Neelands, at the Hotel Vancouver. In the afternoon they were driven to around the park.

Revelstoke, Sept. 6.—The English Editors reach here tomorrow morning and proceed south to Rossland, Boundary and Nelson. They will reach Rossland on Sunday evening and Nelson probably Wednesday evening.

They are reported to be greatly annoyed at the suggestion that they were not desirous of visiting the Kootenay districts. They say they are most anxious to learn all they can concerning the mining industry, and hope to be able to devote all their time in Kootenay to the examination of the mines and smelters.
