LAND GRANT SCANDAL

W. J. Taylor Denies Testimony of Mr. Wells.— Investigation Bringing New Matter to Light.

Most of the time of the committee of investigation of the Columbia & Western land grant scandal on the 5th instant was taken up by the examination of W. J. Taylor of the legal firm of Eberts & Taylor. The examination was conducted by acting Crown Prosecutor L. P. Duff, and the chief commissioner was represented by Mr. C. C. McCaul, K. C.

On Mr. Taylor being sworn he went directly into the interview with the chief commissioner that he had in Montreal in November or December, 1901. He said that it had been alleged by the chief commissioner that he, Mr. Taylor, had visited Hon. Mr. Wells at his room in the Windsor hotel, and had endeavored to induce him to make delivery of the Columbia & Western grant, suggesting that if he did so, there was an opportunity for him, Wells, to obtain 30,000 acres of the lands for himself, with a twelfth interest in the syndicate that was being formed to deal with them.

Mr. Taylor's version of the conversation was very different indeed. He had gone to Montreal, he said, in connection with an entirely private business transaction with Mr. A. C. Flumerfelt, travelling with Mr. Flumerfelt, and having his expenses defrayed by that gentleman, subject to adjustment in the settling up of the business affair in which they were mutually interested. He had had no pass from the C. P. R., nor had he any connection with that company's interests direct or indirect, business or personal. This was in November or December, 1901.

Hon. Mr. Wells was a guest at the hotel. He asked him to go to the theatre with him. A conversation had ensued upon a matter introduced by Hon. Mr. Wells and wholly foreign to any connection with the Columbia & Western matter. Afterwards Hon. Mr. Wells had imparted the information that he had with him the grants in satisfaction of the Columbian & Western subsidy, but had not yet made delivery of them to the company.

"He said that he thought before he gave them up, the company ought to do something," continued Mr. Taylor—"he intimated that the company should do something, 'as he was in a very peculiar position.' He did not explain what that peculiar position was, but he added that the company should do something for the government, to help the government out—politically I presumed he meant.

"He then intimated that he was asking that the building of the line to Spence's Bridge be made a condition for delivery of the grants, and I said I thought that was a very queer way of doing business—for a government to hang up a subsidy for the doing of some particular work, and then when that work was done, to refuse to pay up until some other action was performed. Wells then remarked that there ought to be twenty or thirty thousand acres 'in it for us,' and I replied that taking out twenty or thirty thousand acres for the nineteen or twenty in your crowd, there wouldn't be much left out of 600,000 acres. To this he had replied that there would be a good deal more in it by not giving the grants and having the lands located than by giving over the lands to the company.

"I told him that I thought it was a very peculiar thing to have a government make a bargain with a company, and then see one of the ministers gubbing about the country with the grants in his pocket, sparring for better terms. He said that he could explain all that—he had fixed it with Mr. Dunsmuir before leaving Victoria. He had already squared the matter with the government. I said that would not be likely to satisfy the public, and he said something about being able to look after that all right. I asked him if it would not be better to do the square thing—if the company was entitled to the grants to give them to them, and if not tell them straight out. In that way the government would be acting properly and would keep its friends, not sacrifice them, as would be the natural result the way that he was acting. He said that he was going to see Shaughnessy in any event, and I advised him not to. There was nothing further said in the matter."

He, Taylor, went with Hon. Mr. Wells to the theatre. He had no other conversation on the subject with the chief commissioner. On but one other occasion had he seen Mr. Wells during his stay in Montreal, when Mr. Wells spoke of certain matters in connection with the banquet of the Manufacturers' association. Mr. Flumerfelt was going, and he, Taylor, had asked Mr. Wells if he intended to be there? He replied that he had not received an invitation, and expressed surprise that Mr. Flumerfelt had been so honored and he had not. He, witness, had replied that Mr. Flumerfelt was well known in Montreal as identified with a large business concern, and had suggested that he, Wells, send in his name to the secretary, when he would not doubt receive an invitation.

THE FRANK DISASTER

Wm. Pearce, Inspector of Surveys, Gives Calgary Herald Latest News of Frank.

A representative of the Herald was given an interview on Tuesday last by Wm. Pearce, who is a geologist of experience. Mr. Pearce had just returned from the scene of the disaster. Following is the principal part of the information elicited:

Figures as to the loss of life and property as follows:
Killed, 38 men, 8 women, 20 children.
Injured, 11, only two or three of whom dangerously.

Dead bodies recovered, 12.
Of those killed 21 were miners, and the balance ranchmen, merchants, engineers and laborers.

Six miners' cottages were completely destroyed, being swept away like feathers; one was partially destroyed. Besides these, ten habitations of ranchers and others outside of Frank were totally destroyed. All the mining company's machinery, both new (recently delivered and not put in place), and that already installed, was completely destroyed. It is uncertain yet whether the six thousand foot tunnel was seriously damaged, but Mr. Pearce thinks it probable that it could be used again. The slide has covered over a thousand acres to an average depth of thirty feet. Its action was similar to that of a snow slide running out fan-shaped, and throwing up rocks to a height of at least 400 feet, probably 500 feet, on the opposite mountain.

The large quantity of powdered lime and dust, and the friction on each other of the hard blocks of limestones when falling, according to Mr. Pearce's theory, were the cause of the flames and fumes of gas, which led the people of Frank to adhere to the theory of an earthquake or volcanic explosion.

Mr. Pearce thinks the C. P. R. will probably rebuild the road on the top of the slide, at or about the same location as the old line. He conferred with Mr. Premier Haultain shortly after his arrival, and recommended that the Northwest government construct a wagon road and undertake some work on the river channel.

Mr. Pearce gives an interesting account of the events of Friday and Saturday, when the town of Frank was vacated as the result of observations made by Chief Engineer McHenry. It appears that in addition to these observations, a committee, consisting of Frank Smith, mining inspector, Mr. McCarthy, manager of the coal mines, and F. Byron, well known locally as a prospector and mountain climber, and who claimed to have some knowledge of geology, climbed up Turtle mountain to make an examination. They returned about 1 o'clock on Saturday, and reported to a committee of the leading citizens of Frank, the Mounted Police officers, Mr. Pearce, and the officials of the mining company and the C. P. R. Their unanimous decision was that everybody should leave the town at once, and this decision was afterwards acted upon.

The investigating committee reported that they had found tremendous fissures near the top of the mountain, one of which was ten feet wide, five hundred feet deep, and a thousand feet long, extending back of the face of the cliff where the big slide came down. They recommended that twenty tons of dynamite be placed in this crack and exploded, thereby knocking down all the rock that would come. Many, however, contended that a bunch of fire crackers might just as well be dropped in, as owing to the size of the fissures even the immense quantities of explosives mentioned would have no effect. It is believed that a heavy rain will supply sufficient lubrication to start a movement, and precipitate the whole mass of overhanging rock into the valley. This would mean, if the inspecting committee's conclusions were correct, the total annihilation of Frank.

"Is there much destitution as a result of the disaster?"

In reply to this Mr. Pearce said: "The figures I have in regard to this show that the destitution is not widespread. There are two young orphan children provided for, nine wounded persons in the hospital, and perhaps 50 people who require clothing and provisions until they can be located where they can secure work. All the destitute were employees of the Canadian-American Coal & Coke company." "Do you care to say anything at present as to the cause of the disaster?" "I don't care to say anything at present in regard to that. I have my opinion, of course, but as the matter will probably be the subject of an investigation, I prefer not to state anything just now for publication in regard to the cause."

A Federated South America.

The News Advertiser of May 6 publishes a dispatch from London which states that Sir Thomas Holdich, British commissioner for the Chile-Argentine Boundary Commission, arrived in London, England, on the 5th inst., from South America. In an interview he said that the whole of the disputed tract had now been delimited. Iron pillars had been erected at intervals along the boundary, with the words "Chile" on one side, and "Argentine" on the other.

Sir Thomas added that the award had been received with the greatest satisfaction by the governments of both the countries concerned. The former alliance between Chile and Argentina probably will be revived, and may lead even to a realisation of the scheme for a federation of South America.

Sir Thomas remarked that this is what the thinking men of both countries believe will ensue now that the boundary difficulty, which for seventy years has blocked the way, has been removed.

Mr. A. H. Holdich of Ferguson, is a younger brother of Sir Thomas, and A. H. is justly proud of his brother. Our Mr. Holdich tells some amusing stories of his brother's diplomacy which showed evidence of what was in him even as a boy.

This latest achievement of Sir Thomas was a good stroke of business and gives him added prestige in the empire.

FOUR FEET SOLID ORE

Big Discovery on Lucky Boy--G. W. Stead Purchases the Horseshoe for His Company.

News reached Ferguson Wednesday of an important strike of high grade ore on the Lucky Boy, one of the properties on Trout creek, on which development has progressed rapidly since early last fall under the management of G. W. Stead.

The new strike is of much importance to the whole camp, for it proves what has always been contended by the EAGLE, that fine bodies of rich ore exist all about in the mountains of the district, and all that is wanted to demonstrate this is work. "The new find consists of four feet of solid high grade ore. The chute has not been followed sufficiently to give an approximate estimate of the extent, but those who have seen it believe there is a large quantity and the chute will continue to some distance.

This new strike largely enhances the value of the adjoining properties and before the summer's end we hope to hear of several other deals on that hill and good figures will be obtained, too.

Mr. Stead succeeded a few days since in buying of Messrs. Hillman, McCarter & Craig, the adjoining property to the Lucky Boy, the Horseshoe, on which there is a magnificent showing of ore and from which considerable has been shipped. The purchase price was $16,000, with $5,000 paid down, the balance to be made in two subsequent payments. This is a good sum, considering the Horseshoe is only a small fraction of a claim. However, the ground is thoroughly impregnated with very rich ore.

Eleven Thousand on Strike.

A late telegraphic report comes direct from Australia to the effect that 11,000 railroad employees; which includes nearly the whole number on the railroads of the country, have quit work and declared a strike. The railroads of Australia are owned and operated by the government of the country, and this action was taken in consequence of recent legislation which prohibited any employee of the country joining a union or labor organization.

The strike completely ties up the business of the country and will prove a serious set back to the island. While this is true, it shows that the laboring men of Australia are fully alive to their rights and it will probably prove a lesson to the learned "legislators and teach them to leave 'good enough' alone.

However, there is a strong probability of the government calling out the troops and having the strikers arrested. They they can do, but it would hardly prove a wise course to pursue. They would do better to concede the demands of the men, which are recognized in other countries as a right.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Our town has absolutely no grounds where athletics of any kind may be practiced, and nearly every man and boy feels that something should be done at once to have grounds set apart and cleared for recreation purposes. We understand the townsite agent has offered a plot of 9 lots for this purpose and will also contribute $100 toward clearing the lots, if the town people will do the rest. It is claimed that another $100 would be sufficient to put the grounds in good shape. Recreation grounds situated conveniently are a necessity, and more especially in a mining town like Ferguson, where one is closely shut in for the larger part of the year by deep snow, etc. Not only are such grounds a necessity for the young men, but the young women and children may derive much benefit by making frequent use of the grounds and engaging in vigorous, healthful recreation. Most people require an incentive to enable them to get sufficient exercise to insure perfect health. In most places one can use the bicycle, which is a very good way of obtaining the necessary exercise, but in Ferguson the nature of our roads denies one this enjoyable mode of recreation. Horseback riding is largely indulged in but this is too expensive a luxury and at the same time it is not so beneficial as athletic sports. Let us hold a meeting and organize an association.

Peter Veregin, late of Siberia, has brought peace to the troubled Doukhobors in the Northwest territories. One of the most difficult features of the Doukhobor settlements with which the immigration authorities have had to deal was the refusal of the members to homestead the land. Their opinions have within the past few months undergone a decided change in this respect. Every male Doukhobor over the age of 18 years has applied for a quarter section, and 1,743 homestead entries have been made since Veregin's arrival in the country. During Veregin's recent visit to Winnipeg he donned clothing worn by Canadians; his hair cut short and long sweeping beard entirely taken off, and in place of the Russian blouse and trousers, a suit of store clothes with all the accessories of starched linen and neat cravat. The costume of his followers will not be long in undergoing a similar change.

The past winter has shown how very uncertain is the boat and sleigh road service into Ferguson, and how important for the welfare and progress of our chief industry that connection be supplied by all rail route before another winter. Mining men cannot afford to take chances of running out of supplies and possibly be forced to close down their works. If we had all rail connection with Kootenay lake and Arrowhead, properties might be mined profitably that cannot now be touched, and the camp would grow apace in consequence of more mines being opened up and the largely increased production of ore. The C. P. R. will not give any satisfaction as to their intentions in this matter, but we believe they realize that they are keeping the country back by holding the charter and not completing the road.

Gabriel Dumont, one time lieutenant of Louis Reil, is again back in Canada, on his way to Duck Lake, Saskatchewan, where he will take up land and intends farming. He is 66 years old and is still as active as when he led his half breeds twenty years ago. Dumont has accumulated some little money. In the rebellion of 1885 Dumont practically conducted Reil's military operations and was recognized as being the only capable man, in the matter of carrying on a campaign, within the rebel army.

Jos. Ryan returned from Revelstoke on Sunday.

O. B. N. Wilkie P. L. S. was in Ferguson last week.

The mail came through on wheels Friday for the first time this year.

All lines of business are improving since navigation opened on Trout lake.

S. Daney broke the wagon road through to Trout Lake on Monday last.

Jack Smith, of Smith & Labeau, went out to Revelstoke Wednesday and returned today.

Rev. H. A. Solly is at New Westminster. He will receive special ordination before his return.

Geo. Powell and J. J. Loutil, representing Vancouver wholesale houses, were in Ferguson Thursday.

C. D. Edwards has started a chicken ranch to supply the town and mines with fresh eggs and poultry.

W. A. Smith of Vernon, an experienced butcher has taken charge of P. Burns' Ferguson meat market.

Two loads of cordwood buckets for the Silver Cup tram were taken through to Eight-Mile Tuesday.

Geo. Ross, who is interested in the Black Warrior property, has returned from a somewhat lengthy visit to Nelson.

Jim Graham drove his four-horse team over the road from Beaton Wednesday, bringing a wagon and some freight.

The road to Trout Lake is getting very good for horseback riding. Mrs. S. Daney and Mrs. A. C. Cummins have made several trips.

It is announced that the much talked of saw mill will be erected near Trout Lake this summer. A strong company has the proposition in hand.

Smith and Reeve have formed a partnership and will open a first-class laundry on the 15th inst., in the building occupied last year by Miss Davis.

The manager of the Goldfinch mine on Fish creek, took a gold brick out to the bank at Revelstoke on the 6th inst. This was produced by the company's stamp mill from 80 tons of ore and the value was $1,600.

Messrs. Foran and Meslie are making good progress cutting logs for the new portable saw mill which will be put in by the Great Western & Silver Cup mines. This mill is only for the purpose of supplying timber and lumber for the company's mines.

James Graham came home to spend his birthday, Wednesday, among his friends. Jim thinks for a jolly good time Ferguson is hard to beat. We have decided not to give his age this time, but it may be learned at this office by the payment of a year's subscription to the EAGLE in advance.

Smith & Labeau have the new power house, for the electric light plant, completed. It joins their lumber mill and both plants will be run by the same power. A water wheel and other appliances are now on the road from Vancouver. When this machinery is installed there will be ample power to run both plants.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Burgess and child left Monday via Lardo for Vancouver. Mrs. Burgess and child will remain in Vancouver until Mr. B. gets located at Port Simpson. Mrs. Burgess' departure is much regretted by the Methodist congregation, especially, she having filled the position of organist for the past two months.

Supt. A. P. Garrett of the Nettie L. mine, received a message Wednesday informing him of the death of one of his children in Boise, Idaho. He left for home Thursday morning. Mr. Garrett left Boise about six weeks since, when the child was in good health. Our sympathy is extended to Mr. Garrett and family.
