seem to have profited by the beautiful creations of those earlier on the grounds.

The attendance yesterday exceeded by several hundred that of the opening day.

The exhibit of W. P. Fuller & Co. is one of the handsomest ever seen in California.

One of the novel and attractive features of the exposition is a creation in soap—an artistically designed triumph arch.

There are hundreds of other booths just as attractive in their way as those already enumerated.

An elaborate programme has been arranged for to-night, which has been termed "Scottish night."

March, "The Campbells"; overture, "White Lady of Avenel"; (Bolero); descriptive national fantasia, "Voyage in a Troopship"; notice was issued by the secretary of the joint committee last night:

The Scotch celebration will be in charge of the following: Committee Chairman—Chief Edward Kerr, M. L. Crowe, Dr. J. A. McDonald, Thomas Fraser.

On Thursday evening, the 3d inst., the Scotch people of this city will participate in the festivities prepared for them at the home products exhibition now holding forth at the Mechanics' Pavilion on Larkin street.

The platform will be suitably decorated, including a lifelike portrait of Robert Burns.

INTERCOLLEGIATE BALL

St. Mary's and St. Ignatius College Teams to Contest.

What promises to be the most interesting event of the season in intercollegiate baseball circles is the St. Mary-St. Ignatius game, which is to take place at the Presidio athletic grounds, Sunday, September 6, at 2:30 P. M.

These teams were rivals in the California Intercollegiate League of the Midwinter Fair, and in the several games played by them at that time gave the prettiest exhibitions of amateur ball ever witnessed on a local diamond.

Sunday's game, whatever the result, will in all probability be but the first of a series of three, all of which will be played in this city.

Already over 1500 tickets have been sold for the first game, and requests that certain portions of the grand stand be reserved for students from Santa Clara, San well established, and a third will be mustered in about the middle of this month.

The second regiment, League of the Cross Cadets, will be confined to Alameda County, and chiefly represented in Oakland, Alameda, Berkeley, Temescal and the Haywards and San Leandro district.

For this reason there can be no doubt of its success. The Rev. Philip O'Ryan and the Rev. Peter C. Yorke will take an active part in the work.

Secretary Theodore Lynch read from the socialist paper, "The People of New York, an Address to American Wage-workers," which was cordially received.

Mr. Murasky reviewed the existing conditions of human society, dwelling upon the injustices which some sections of the body politic are now obliged to endure.

By way of a contrast he presented a glowing picture of the advantages which belong to the ideal socialist state.

Continuing, the lecturer referred to the degrading conditions imposed by society upon the world's toilers, instancing the case of the diamond miners in South Africa.

Many men, he said, regarded socialism as an economic heresy, but others—among whom was a millionaire friend of his, whose name he preferred not to mention—were making a deep and earnest study of socialist teachings with a view to estimating their probable effect as a remedy for the present state of things.

Amid much cheering and applause the orator of the evening received a unanimous vote of thanks, after which brief remarks were made by James Andrew, the Socialist candidate for Lieutenant-Governor, Theodore Lynch, and William Seiler, M. Leiters, Ebel Hecht and William Nagle, and the meeting adjourned with the singing of the "Marseillaise" hymn.

The bridesmaids, Misses Anita and Myrtle Hermes, with the maid of honor, Miss Schwerin, led the bridal procession, followed by the bride leaning on the arm of her father, Albert Kuner.

The young couple will start this morning for the southern part of the State, where a brief honeymoon will be enjoyed.

SPOKE OF GENERAL GRANT

Comrades of George H. Thomas Post, G. A. R., Listened to W. H. L. Barnes.

A Fraternal Visit From Admiral D. D. Porter Post, Oakland.

The rooms of George H. Thomas Post, G. A. R., at 320 Post street, were crowded by comrades Monday evening, who assembled to hear General W. H. L. Barnes speak.

General Barnes spoke of Grant, and spoke in an interesting and instructive style. It is the fancy of the eloquent orator to address the Post occasionally, taking for the topic of his talk, Lincoln, Grant or some other conspicuous figure in National history.

Grant's mastery qualities of leadership in action and his attribute of generosity to the vanquished when the conflict was done were eulogized. It was obvious to all who had the pleasure of listening to the talk that General Barnes had made a special and careful study of the life of Grant, as a soldier and as President of the United States.

TOOK POISON AND TURNED ON GAS.

Belle Stevenson Makes Careful Preparations for Suicide.

HER SUCCESS IN DOUBT.

Pasted Strips of Wrapping Paper Over the Cracks in Her Door.

THEN OPENED ALL THE JETS.

After Dressing in Funeral Garb and Swallowing Carbolic Acid She Lay Down to Die.

Powell and Ellis streets, yesterday morning. She went to the hotel between 5 and 6 o'clock Tuesday afternoon and asked for a room. The landlord, Thomas Withers, asked her to register her name, but she declined, as she had her gloves on.

They went to the woman's room and found her stretched on the bed. She was frothing at the mouth and her lips were blue. She was moaning and seized with occasional spasms.

After making these preparations she put on clean underclothing and a neat night robe. Then she apparently drank some carbolic acid from a bottle which was found in one of the bureau drawers, and turned on the gas from both burners.

Withers summoned the patrol wagon and the woman was taken to the Receiving Hospital, where Dr. Fitzgibbon used all the usual remedies to restore her to consciousness, but without avail.

In her purse was found $1.50, but no papers to give a clue to her identity were found either in her purse, valise or pockets. The nuclage bottle was in the room, but a pair of scissors could not be found, and the supposition is that she had clipped the wrapping-paper into strips before going to the hotel and had placed the strips in her valise.

Four or five cigarettes, partly consumed, were found on the floor, and some tobacco in her valise.

not return inquiries were made at the hospital and her identification followed.

The professor said she had been in poor health for a long time and that possibly would account for her seeking to end her life. He thought she was a married woman or a widow, as she always wore a plain gold ring on her left hand.

She had evidently disposed of her marriage ring and a gold scarfpin she always wore, as neither was found in her possession.

She had not regained consciousness up to a late hour last night and her condition had not improved.

SIMON KOSHLAND BURIED. The Pioneer Wool Merchant Laid in the Home of Peace.

Simon Koshland, the wool merchant, was buried yesterday morning from the family home, 1808 Pine street. He died Monday from an apoplectic stroke.

Rabbi Voorsanger conducted the services. He spoke with deep feeling of the deceased, to whom he paid a high tribute.

Mr. Koshland was a member of the congregation Emanu-El. He was a strictly orthodox Jew, and when a number of years ago the congregation of the Temple Emanu-El decided upon reform methods he, with a coterie of friends, withdrew therefrom and founded the Mason-street Synagogue, of which Rev. Dr. Bettelheim was rabbi for a number of years.

Where Men Are Weak

In the small of the back, the general nerve, muscular and sexual center—the point at which the nerves, which feed nearly all the vital functions of the body, begin—this is where nearly all men and women are weak. A pain here may mean, and generally does, the exhaustion of nerve strength in the vital organs. It is the nerve crying for aid, and no pain at this point should be treated as immaterial. It will come again, and with greater severity, and if the message given by the nerves is not attended to, it will result in nervous prostration, impotency or Bright's disease of the kidneys.
