THE WORKERS AND THE SHIRKERS

or
The Heroes and the Zeros
or
The Makers and the Takers
or
Men and "Gentlemen"
or
Labor and Capital

Which would you choose for a husband, one of these men building the "skyscraper" or one of those ball-room "stags"?

The answer to that question will test your intelligence and your morality, young woman.

Those are MEN sitting with undizzy heads in mid-heaven to guide that massive girder into place. They are the doers of the world's work. They are the creators of the world's wealth. But those things in the swallow tails, waiting their turn to waltz some equally well tailored things in skirts, would you really sell yourself to one of them?

If you are sensible, if you can see deep enough to tell a real man from a mock man, you would never choose one of those starched and ironed degenerates for that steady Son of Thor holding high his waiting hand. And if you are moral, if you have inherited some of that splendid virtue that made the great matrons of old days, you would rather than admit one of those unsexed parasites to be the father of your child.

Parasites! That is the worst. These dudes are really parasites on the workers. For who made their broad-cloths, their linen, their patent leathers?

Who even cut their hair, twisted their mustachios, bathed them and dressed them?

The rugs and paneled floors, the tapestries and gilded walls, the conservatories and wines, the cut glass, the curtains, velvets, diamonds, all were made by workers, men, women and children workers.

These shirkers who live off other men's work are the most immoral creatures on earth. You despise the animal parasite, the flea, the louse, as the most repulsive of living things. Just so we Socialists loathe the man parasite, the capitalist, who creates nothing himself but appropriates what others create.

They live from the sweat and blood of the millions of wage workers.

All that man gets up there in the wind for his heroic achievement is Three or Four Dollars a day, while those tailor made fellows get a hundred or a thousand dollars a day, all made by the workingman, to spend on their sweet scented bodies, to bet on the races, or to play politics with.

The Socialist stands for the man who makes the world and he demands that the man who robs the man who makes the world shall cease to be.

SLAVE MARKET REPORTS

Conducted by D. Burgess.

THE UNEMPLOYED ARMY IS GROWING—MUTTERINGS OF DISCONTENT ARE SWELLING INTO A MIGHTY CHORUS.

Strikes and Lockouts a Feature of the Week—Rising in Chicago. The masters prove their class-consciousness by consistent support of every movement of the police and of the government. Government of the people, by the people and for the people, a huge farce.

Government of the Capitalist Class, by the Capitalist Class, over the Slave Class, is a true statement of the facts.

The slave is interested in the general markets for the reason that these markets are a barometer, indicating the probable condition of the labor market. There is a manifest sympathy in the prices of leading commodities, such as grain, cotton, steel and labor. For many weeks past the markets have been weak, with a tendency to fall.

Of course, there have been exceptions to be found in the prices of such commodities as are used by the idlers only. Such for instance as the cattle for grafting purposes, and more recently there has been a spirited demand for rare. In one instance, as reported in our dailies, the price of an ear arose to $10,000. Of course, the would be purchaser desired a shapely ear. And, by the way, we have in this circumstance a vivid illustration of the lack of thrift on the part of the slaves.

If our class were alert, enterprising and watchful, almost any of them might have cultivated the sort of ears in demand, and as a result the price would not have disturbed our prosperity market. It is these sudden transitions that are so alarming. I hope the slaves will be more thrifty in the future, and keep a large assortment of ears from which the masters can select without endangering the fabric of commercialism with high prices.

With staple articles there is no longer any danger from this source. Our slaves have been trained and disciplined in the many virtues until the master class is no longer disturbed by visions of inefficiency on the part of the slave.

Of course the slave gets little out of his skill, industry and courage, but that is of minor importance to the masters. If the slaves are ever to live a decent life and enjoy the fruits of their knowledge, skill and industry, they must join a political party of their own, and through such party master the powers of government.

The masters will resist all such efforts, and these masters will bring to their aid every agency known, but why should the slave have respect for the wishes of those who despoil him and his?

So long as the markets are ruled by the competitive laws of supply and demand, the masters, masters, will live in luxury, the slaves will exist in poverty and degradation.

One of the great financiers is reported to have said: "This country will sweat blood before many months and before the year is over it is likely that hundreds of thousands of men who are now employed will be idle than we can sell. * * * Wages must be lowered and mills must be shut down. It is only fear of speculative consequences in Wall Street that prevents prompt action now."

The author of the foregoing quotation is not a Socialist, nor is he a labor agitator, but he is one of the owners, one of the masters. He and such as he have conjured up powers which they cannot now deal with. His class, the capitalists are impotent to deal with these forces.

Private ownership has been weighed in the balance and found wanting—suddenly wanting.

Socialists propose collective ownership as a remedy. Can you show that collective ownership is not a remedy?

The tools of the capitalist, the governors who order the slaves shot for working for a little more of a wage which they have created, are now writing thanksgiving proclamations. I wonder what the slaves have to be thankful for.

The slave was able to work, knew how to work and desired to work, but the owners, his masters refused him work. Through private ownership he was locked out. His wife and children were cold and hungry, he took a few cents worth of coal, was caught, tried, and sentenced to five days confinement. But this did not furnish his wife and children with the necessities. His poor neighbors, his companions in slavery, helped to keep his wife and children alive until he was set at liberty, but what can he do now?

Our great dailies, such as the Seattle Times, The Denver News, The Tacoma Ledger, et al., are telling us that all men who will work now have jobs, and are contented, happy and prosperous, but we observe that there are numerous strikes all over this country. There are always thousands of men ready to take the places of the strikers. Do you believe men ever leave a good job to take the place of a striker?

From the slave market in England comes the following report: "Comrade Moore was holding a street meeting at Battersea, when he was set upon by a lot of well dressed roughs. They created much confusion but were about to get the worst of it when the police interfered. But the police did not interfere in the interests of peace. They arrested a number of the comrades and some of these comrades were found guilty of various offenses. In every instance the evidence was flimsy and the alleged offenses trivial. It is believed that the police will succeed in getting some of the comrades discharged from their jobs." This is occurring under the British flag; it occurs under the Stars and Stripes; it occurs under all existing flags. Are any of these flags floating in the breeze for your good, slave?

One of Seattle's papers asserts that Geo. F. Cotterill is engaged in his customary role of exposing "graft"—and championing the cause of civic decency. But the exposure of "graft"—and the championing of "civic decency" do not in the least interfere with the taking of profits and the perpetuation of wage slavery. If they did Geo. F. Cotterill would not work at such amusement.

Some of our sentimental Socialists bemoan the fact that the Socialist forces are not united. These people express discouragement, but they must forget that all progress is the result of a terrible stress and struggle. Some of these people believe that capitalism has achieved good successes and yet capitalism is still torn by dissensions, by strife and conflict, even to the extent of using great armies. If our pessimistic comrades could only comprehend the Socialist philosophy they would not be discouraged by such slight disagreements as now characterize our movement.

If you do not think Socialism worth fighting for "go away back and sit down." The Socialist movement is not in need of timid folks; we need strong, fearless men and women.

When a Socialist asserts that the working class must save itself, some professed Socialists cry out, saying, "You are narrow, bigoted, intolerant." But that does not disprove the proposition that the workers must rely solely upon their own efforts.

"The Seattle Mail and Herald" in speaking of the undertaking of the boys of the Central School of Seattle to conduct a monthly journal has this to say of such effort: "The contents of the Seattle School News is breezy, spicy, new, and without well gotten up. The interest taken by these boys in their work, is really the chief matter of interest to their friends. They do not neglect their school tasks, but they are at work early and late. It is their play and their diversion. It is football and all kinds of games to them. This is what work should be to everybody, and when it is so, success is sure to follow. Success to the Seattle School News, and especially to its staff."

The Mail and Herald gives a list of the boys who are now conducting this laudable enterprise. We observe that none of these boys are forced into the factories, shops, mills or mines to make a living. We are glad they are not. We wish no boys were compelled to sell themselves into endless and hopeless slavery, but such wishes do not save the sons of the working people.

The Socialists would make it possible for all boys to choose their "play and their diversion."

Elbert Hubbard says that every tub must stand on its own bottom. Every man must look out for his end of the line. Nobody has time to stop and mingle tears with the man who makes a mistake. It is his own loss and his own fight.—Ex.

So this modern philosopher cannot see that the Individual is impotent, but that the organization of Individuals is omnipotent. Well, greatness has its drawbacks.

It was on a thoroughfare. A teamster was striving to get his team to draw a loaded wagon up a slight grade, but one of the horses was stubborn and refused to pull. Quite a crowd had gathered. Finally the teamster picked up a silver from one of the board planks and struck the obstinate horse.

At this a woman's voice sang out: "Stop that, you nasty brute, you scoundrel. I will call the police."

This woman was fashionably attired, having upon her person many dollars' worth of fabrics which had been produced by the sweat and blood of helpless children. For such blessings she bows her head in sweet humility and thanks her God. (Continued on Page Two.)

WHAT THE NATIONAL ORGANIZERS ARE DOING.

National Headquarters.

Socialist Party.

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 14, 1903.

M. W. Wilkins is now in Montana, working under the direction of Secretary Comrade Wood, with dates already arranged until Dec. 5th. Wilkins' work in Washington has been most successful, and the National Secretary has received enthusiastic letters about his work from many places. From Oct.

15th to Nov. 1st Wilkins addressed meetings in Spokane (6), Cheney (1), Colfax (1), Fairfield, Rockford, Thornton, St. John, Union, Wilkes, Uniontown, Paines, Garfield, Okanogan, local were organized. Eleven new locals were organized. Eleven numbers gained for every local. Wilkins' financial report for October shows $1,925 salary; $215 hotel; $11.95 railroad fare; $27.15 miscellaneous; $6.75; total, $241.85. Receipts, $1,683.91. Deficit, $332.94.

Geo. E. Bigelow will fill the following dates during November in the West Territory after closing in Arkansas on the 15th: Monday, Wilbur, 17; Hartsboro, 18; Kroes, 19, 20, 21; Madison, 22; Ida, 23; Rof, 23, 24; Tynia, He will begin at 7:30. Meetings at Fort Smith, 25th. Since Oct. 15th Bigelow addressed two meetings at Midlow, T. T. and at Akron at Fort Smith (2), Van Buren (2), Clark, Russellville, Springfield (3), Little Rock (2), Fayette (2), Wynne (2), Stuttgart (2), Ellet, Plum, He was at Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 1, and was reinvented public meetings. The local held a good meeting and renewed interest and activity was aroused. Bigelow had held stalling at several places for several days. Socialist meetings were never held before. At Russellville a fairly good meeting was held. At Memphis, Bigelow reports "The audience was not very responsive and when the local was asked to carry on, it was refused. We were thankful to get the hat back. It was a new experience for me. At Springfield, Bigelow reports that there were five men present at the meeting who had come 35 miles from Memphis to attend. At Memphis a meeting was advertised for at 10:30 at M. E. church but at the last moment it was cancelled. The local leaders had changed their minds, and a school house was secured in Memphis. A good meeting was held at the afternoon meeting at Benton. Bigelow says "The crowd was all from Memphis and he has walked 15 miles to hear me speak." New members were secured for local and organized. At Memphis, Bigelow reports that he was broken in other places where organs for return visits for several days. Financial report received. Financial report received. $15 railroad fare; $33; $12; total, $127.07. Receipts, lectures $129.31. Cost to national office $57.78.
