Col. Blithen, the presiding genius in the editorial department of the Seattle Times, will not publish the platform of the Socialist party, but he does uncover his head and in a reverential air he pleads the cause of the poor--homeless--dog: Listen to his plea: "The Seattle Humane Society asks that it be given the care of the city pound. The request should be considered. Anything that will tend to a betterment of conditions in the life of the "homeless dog" is a step in a proper direction. If the poor canine outcast is to be put out of the way the Humane Society might find a less cruel way than the present method of drowning. Perhaps the society feels that there are many people who would be glad to accept the gift of a dog that under present conditions would be slaughtered. And this is undoubtedly true. Why not hang out a sign: "Wanted--Homes for Homeless Dogs?" That's right Colonel, save the dogs, and send the children into the shops, factories and stores. Why not hang out a sign: "Houses the dogs; to hell with the children."

"India decays because burdened with law." What law? Capitalist law. There is no other law in civilization. Such law does produce decay after a certain stage of development has been reached. The law that produces decay in India is the law of exploitation. The producers in India are robbed of their product by law, thus making the master class wealthy at the expense of the toilers, and yet, Temple Du Chesne says he knows no difference between the rich and the poor--between the robber and the robbed. "I love a Democrat as much as a Republican." His love for them would not save them from his wrath if he could see that his material interests were opposed to theirs. Do not put your trust in the love of any man who gloats over the military forces of any nation. The masses love of such a man is only a masquerade intended to deceive you and benefit himself. Trust it not even though his worshippers may call him a Socialist. "I would not make a division in society by appealing to different classes." No Socialist makes a division in society, not attempt to do so. He simply recognizes the fact that there is a division of the age, and sets about applying the remedy. Classes exist. What has produced such classes? Private ownership. What is the remedy? Collective ownership and control by the workers. "There is a great gulf between the rich and the poor. The scores of these elements can be brought together the better for both." And yet this Socialist (?) does not tell his audience how to accomplish this feat. This is the very thing that it is the duty of every Socialist to do at every opportunity. He is most responsible for any neglect of such an opportunity. The ownership of the tools of wealth production and distribution by the idle class is the cause for this division in society. Collective ownership and control by the workers is the remedy. Why not tell it! "I believe in money and yet we must be just to everybody." But why does this lecturer not tell how we can be just to everybody so that the master class makes and interprets the laws which are made and interpreted in the interests of the master class. One of our religious journals is almost shocked at a proposition of Congress to raid the United States treasury in their own interest, but it is not quite shocked, it lacked just a little. Hear it well: "Their members wish to draw millions for an assumed 'trip to the homes and back to Washington. This would involve a special appropriation of more than half a million dollars. Such an appropriation, to go straight to their own pockets, is so nearly akin to stealing that for our part we cannot look upon it with any feeling short of disgust. If Congressmen are not paid enough, let them pass a law increasing their allowance. As a country we can afford to compensate our public servants. But in the name of common decency, let us hear no hocus-pocus of appropriating traveling expenses where there has been no travel." It is an awful thing--for one of the robber factories to steal from another, but it's the proper caper for them to join together to steal from the slave. Go it, gentls. Law, order and morality (?) are on your side, and frequently a successful robber gives God the praise, but I think better of Him. Campaign committee of the Socialist Party of Seattle met Thursday evening at 529 Third Avenue, at which most of the candidates were present. Labor produces all wealth. A Reply to the "P-I's" "How Socialism Works." Arlington, Wash., Jan. 17, 1904. EDITOR SOCIALIST: The Seattle Republican daily, The Post-Intelligencer, in its Sunday issue of the 17th inst., tells us a gruesome story about how Socialism works and illustrates its reverses by examples of state capitalism. This is an old, old trick of the "honorable," the "patriotic," "the respectable" and "the moral elements" in our present society. They hesitate at nothing that promises desired results. Hypocrisy and brute force are their stock in trade. The editor of the Post-Intelligencer quotes alleged facts of conditions in Australia and New Zealand as illustrative of Socialism and yet this editor must know that there has never been a Socialist organization of society in either place named. We can have no illustrations of the workings of Socialism until we have established industrial administration, but fortunately for Socialists and for the Socialist Party, we have almost innumerable instances of the workings of capitalism. The instances cited by the Post-Intelligencer may be taken as first in the series, and next, may be summarized the rapid succession of disasters and to these you may add our industrial crises and financial failures. The spectacle of millions of idle men and women who are skilled and anxious to create the wealth they so much need can be cited as an illustration of the utter failure of capitalism. I might give a list of such failures as long as the delinquent tax list in these years of capitalist prosperity, but intelligent people can see enough of these evidences of failure in every community to convince them that capitalism has performed its mission and is only awaiting decent burial. Yours for a reorganization of society with the slave in control of all social forces. A SLAVE.

HANNA -- "Now, Sammy, Say it Once More, 'Socialism Be Damned.'"

SLAVE MARKET REPORTS

Conducted by D. Burgess.

WAR. War is in progress in the Far East. It is said that the Japs are returning to Japan to fight for a country that would not or could not furnish them an opportunity to make a living. But so it is with most of the slaves in all countries. Patriotism, a false sentiment of love for the institutions of your own country, whether good or bad, has had the effect of blinding and deceiving the toilers everywhere. But slowly and surely the slaves are awakening to a realization of the facts. False sentiment is losing its power over all ships. When the works of the world become cognizant of the cases which produce war, there will come an end to armed conflict. As it is today those who profess to abhor war are exultant at the spectacle presented in Port Arthur, nor can these meek and lowly followers of the Christ conceal their delight. This is in itself a bitter commentary upon the sham and hypocrisy of all sentiment that is not based upon fact.

feared rate. I did all I knew how to do for him and when he became a little easier, I asked him what had caused his head to swell so. He growled and pointed to a strip of paper on which I found the following language: "The farmer is the big man in this country; he could buy all the mines, factories, mills, banks and railroads in this country. Besides he could buy the Standard Oil Co.'s holdings and still have a comfortable balance."

"But," I said, "how much of this world do you own?" "Oh," said he, "I have three acres of land here."

"Well," I replied, "do you know that the class who own the mills, mines, factories, banks, Standard Oil and the railroads also own a large part of the farms?"

"When I had convinced him that this was true, the swelling in his head went down so fast that I feared a collapse, but when he had recovered a little he started for his miserable shack, saying, "I wonder I had not thought of that before."

PETER PIPER UP TO DATE. The shirkers work the workers, so the workers shirk the shirkers, the shirkers would have to work. R. A. F.

Rain was falling in a desultory sort of way; a fog had enveloped the city, gloom was enthroned in the office of "The Socialist," where Olsen was bending over the books. Suddenly the outer door swung in and a figure, dressed in the garb of a workman, entered. "Where's Burgess," he asked Olsen.

"In there," said Olsen, without looking up, and pointing in the direction of my "den."

Into my room "It" came and asked, "Is this Burgess?" "Yep," I said, without raising my eyes. "Who are you?" I asked. "The Devil," and this was said in a tone that denoted seriousness. My pen dropped from my hand. I looked up in surprise and moved about in much embarrassment. I have long expected to meet his majesty, but I had never supposed I should meet him in this matter-of-fact way. So soon as I could collect my senses together, I took a survey of this Evil One. He was tall, slim, angular; his face was long, slim, pale and fierce looking; his eyes were penetrating and he kept them fixed upon me. Altogether he was a living, breathing allegory of want and he seemed to want me, judging by the fixedness of his expression. Suddenly he broke the silence, saying, "I want to visit the industrial establishments of this Puget Sound country and I have been advised to consult you."

"I shall be glad to serve you," I said, forgetting whom I was addressing. "When?" he said. "On the 23d of February, I shall go into one of the typical saw mills for the purpose of inspecting and reporting," I said. "All right," he said, "I'll be with you," and departed without further ceremony.

When the sound of his footsteps had died away, I looked for Olsen, and found him on the mailing table and much perturbed. "Who is it?" I asked. "The Devil," said Olsen, with a positive tone.

"I did not see any horns," I said. "He's been dehorned," said Olsen. "I did not see a tail, either," I said. "I guess he's been detailed too," said Olsen.

"Well, I expect to go to one of the big mills on this Sound on the 23d of February, and if this fellow joins me all right, I'll report results in issue of 'The Socialist' of March 5," I said to Olsen, and I will.

A subscriber in sending in his subscription says: "I wish to state that I take pleasure in doing this, as it is on the recommendation of a friend--another subscriber of yours--Mr. Clarence Clowe, at the United States Legion, Peking, China. Very truly yours, "HENRY F. PAGE."

Our kind, considerate, Christian brother, capital, tells us he takes all the risks, and for this reason, his rewards should be commensurate. But after due consideration, I am convinced that our dearly beloved capitalist brother is slightly in error about the risks he takes. I would not for a moment insinuate that this junior brother of ours would misrepresent--not at all--it's not worth while to do such a thing, everybody knows he is a most infamous liar, but he is mistaken in regard to the risks he takes and as evidence I cite the Hardwick mine horror and the almost countless horrors caught in these dead falls. They are set for other game.

The San Francisco Chronicle calls attention to the fact that the question of the disposal of the worn out civil servants is becoming a burning one in Washington. The departments are crowded with employees who are no longer able to earn the salaries which they draw and who could not, as one member of the Cabinet says, even get to their desks if it were not for the elevator. In all other countries having a permanent tenure in the civil service this problem has been solved by a pension system, to which the American public is strongly opposed.

The latest report of the Federal Civil Service Commission suggests that a condition of all future appointments shall be the purchase of annuity insurance, paid for by regular deductions from the salaries--Seattle Times.

If those in the public service whose pull has enabled them to secure jobs better than the compensation is made better, there are slaves in such shadow as they desire, who is it that those who perform useful functions in the industrial world do not come in for a share of the attention of this friend of labor?

Marcus A. Hanna, the Honorable Mark, member of the United States Senate by right of purchase, says: "Until within a comparatively few years big capitalists, or the employing interests, have had the advantage, because there was more workmen than work. But conditions have changed, and for every workman on an average there are two jobs now in the heyday of our prosperity."

Slave, how does Mark's statement accord with your experience? Do you believe Mark and his class care for you and your class? The facility with which Marc. lies and the readiness of his class to believe such lies ought to satisfy you that the masters care less for you than for brutes.

BETTER VOTE FOR WHAT YOU WANT!

"THE BARE PALM OF THE WAGE WORKER"

Lyman, Wash. Dec. 31, 1903. Editor of "The Socialist": In regard to the "straight and narrow way," "How to live," "Class Conscious," "Socialism," "Bread and Butter," "Big enough for them all," "Socialists," I would like to say, "I believe in it."

What is wanted is for every man who votes the ticket to know exactly what is voting for. The Socialist Party should not be introduced in a whirl of excitement equal to a Methodist revival, nor the people frightened into supporting it by the awe-inspiring mysteries of a Spiritual Science.

There are many marching in the ranks of Socialism today who do not "half way" understand its principles or methods. Neither do they understand how to vote. They are so afraid to think that some one (unknown to them) is going to do the work, pay the money, and they are so afraid to do it to wait and enjoy its blessings.

Many will not join a local, nor even vote for a Socialist ticket. I believe many who seem to understand the proposition thoroughly, still think we must start with the middle class to enter the middle class into our ranks.

Say I don't care if not a single one of the middle-class ever votes the ticket, if to get them the party principles have to be prostituted to the interests of the wage-slave.

Give the glove hand to no one, but the bare hand to all. The wage-worker. By so doing, we will gain the respect of all, and every wage worker will be able to rank as soon as he understands the true principles of Socialism.

Socialism means sugar-coating to go down the throat of a man who works by the day for his living. All we want to hand to the wage-worker is "all wool and a yard wide." The Socialist is making a grand fight against the wage-slave, but a little bit harsh at times, perhaps, but asking only a "fair field and no favor," which is all that is asked in the end.

The Nebraska situation should have opened the eyes of those who regard Socialism as a mere game of cards. Socialism means sugar-coating to go down the throat of a man who works by the day for his living.

Dear Comrade: Yours of the 13th inst. came, and in reply to you I am sorry you could not get subscribers for "The Socialist." I gave all my papers away, and in one case they would not take it out of the postoffice.

There are two readers of the Appeal to Reason here and one in Wishram. No Local at all. Capitalism is not developed right here—it is in its infancy. The soil where Socialism thrives best is large cities.

SEATTLE PEOPLE DO NOT NEED A TELESCOPE.

Dear Comrade:—Noting for the last few issues of "The Socialist" that you have established a department of "Slave Market Reports," and as I also notice that many observations and comments come in from the country, I would point to conditions of the wage slaves in the city. But if the observer wants to see the horribleness of the present social condition, the field for such observations is in the city where it can be seen in all its nakedness.

And Seattle is as good a place as any where for an observer with a Socialist camera for getting views of our present social system.

One thing that Seattle possesses that it ought to be proud of, is its chain-gang. The writer, on a recent visit to your city, counted 21 men in that gang marching along the public streets under guard, and from all appearances of these men, they all are not possessed of a bath. But of course it serves these men all right. If they had had brains like Jim Hill or Morgan, et al., they would all have been millionaires.

As to the committee of the earth-like area equals this state in variety and in extent of riches.

The forests of Washington are of vast extent, of peerless quality. Here the giant, capitalism, though young, smaller every day, but still in its brutality. We want to picture this giant in all his hideousness as displayed in the lumbering industry in this great state.

We will issue a special issue of "The Socialist" dealing with some of the details of capitalism in one of the great mills in this coast.

See "The Socialist" of Feb. 14 for further particulars. The special issue of March will contain all that is in a cent copy in bundles of ten or more.

Resolved, That the resolution passed by the state committee of the van proposition, made by the Coming Nation of Rich Hill, Miss. be adopted.

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to the Coming Nation and to the Socialist Party at Seattle.

The above resolution was passed by Local Port Angeles with but two dissenting votes. We are proud to have cast one of them. Yours fraternally, HERMAN CULVER, Sec. Local Port Angeles.

One of our advertisers told us the other day in so many words: "The Socialists certainly stand together like a team, but they are not together like we are together. Lead your support to those that are helping us. Buy from our advertisers."

THIS PLATFORM

Adopted in Convention, June 31, 1904

The Newspapers of Seattle are afraid of this platform. They seem to think it hot.

"WORKINGMEN OF ALL COUNTRIES, UNITE! YOU HAVE NOTHING TO LOSE BUT YOUR CHAINS; YOU HAVE A WORLD TO GAIN!"

We, the Socialist Party of Seattle, in convention assembled, proclaim our allegiance to the Socialist Party of America, and affirm our unflinching adherence to the principles and the program of international revolutionary Socialism.

1. Labor produces all wealth.

2. Under the present economic and political conditions labor's share in the wealth which it creates is merely a mean and uncertain subsistence.

3. So long as the present organization of industry remains the capitalist class will monopolize the machines of production and will reap whatever you can afford to help along in this great cause.

4. The appropriation of labor's wealth by the capitalist is so complete that it enables them to live in luxury and idleness.

5. As a necessary consequence of this exploitation of the laborers by the capitalists—the expropriation of all property out of the hands of the toilers into the private ownership of the holders of capital, there is an inevitable war between the interests of the working class on the one hand and the interests of the capitalist class on the other.

6. This class struggle between the wealth-makers and the wealth-takers will endure so long as our present system of production for profit continues.

7. In this conflict between the workers and the capitalists, labor is disarmed on the economic side, all the instruments of production and distributing wealth being owned and controlled by the holders of capital.

8. There is only one weapon with which the working class can successfully oppose the capitalist class—and that is the BALLOT.

9. The fact demands as an inevitable conclusion the organization of the working class into a political party that shall be, everywhere and always, distinct from and opposed to every political party not founded entirely upon the interests of the working class.

10. The Socialist Party, when in office, shall always and everywhere, until the present system of wage-slavery is utterly abolished, make the answer to this question its guiding rule of conduct: Will this legislation advance the interests of the working class and aid the work of the Socialist cause, or will it tend to weaken the struggle against capitalism? If it does, the Socialist Party is for it; if it does not, the Socialist Party is absolutely opposed to it.

11. In accordance with this principle, the Socialist Party pledges itself to conduct all the public affairs of the city in such a manner as to protect the interests of the working class.

12. In conclusion, we appeal to all working men to study the principles of Socialism, to vote with their class at all elections until they overthrow the power of capitalism, abolish industrial classes in society, terminate forever the class struggle and inaugurate the Co-operative Commonwealth based upon the fundamental principle of Socialism: TO EVERY WORKER THE FULL PRODUCT OF HIS LABOR!

13. In accordance with this principle, the Socialist Party pledges itself to conduct all the public affairs of the city in such a manner as to protect the interests of the working class.

14. In conclusion, we appeal to all working men to study the principles of Socialism, to vote with their class at all elections until they overthrow the power of capitalism, abolish industrial classes in society, terminate forever the class struggle and inaugurate the Co-operative Commonwealth based upon the fundamental principle of Socialism: TO EVERY WORKER THE FULL PRODUCT OF HIS LABOR!

15. In accordance with this principle, the Socialist Party pledges itself to conduct all the public affairs of the city in such a manner as to protect the interests of the working class.

16. In conclusion, we appeal to all working men to study the principles of Socialism, to vote with their class at all elections until they overthrow the power of capitalism, abolish industrial classes in society, terminate forever the class struggle and inaugurate the Co-operative Commonwealth based upon the fundamental principle of Socialism: TO EVERY WORKER THE FULL PRODUCT OF HIS LABOR!

17. In accordance with this principle, the Socialist Party pledges itself to conduct all the public affairs of the city in such a manner as to protect the interests of the working class.
