

tempting to stand between them and that pie counter. (Laughter.)

Referred to Railways.

"Once I picked up a book and read in it John, by the Grace of God, King." Now, there never was a King on this earth who ruled by the grace of God—he rules by the ignorance of his subjects. (Laughter.) You can't stuff that grace of God business down me—(applause)—because too many of my ancestors had their ears lopped off by Kings by the grace of God."

The C. P. R. was characterized as a great benevolent institution standing behind the Conservatives, while the Grand Trunk Pacific was another such backing the Liberal party. Before closing, Mr. Kingsley launched out into a lengthy dissertation on the propaganda of the Socialist party.