

James Tunstall, a shotlighter in the coal mines at Nanaimo, was instantly killed by a fall of rock on August 15. None of the stockholders were injured.